conference, lasting four hours, was held yesterday in Mayor Grant's private office, to consider the city debt question. There were present Mayor Grant, Comptroller Myers, Corporation Counsel Beekman, Chamberlain Ivins, President Arnold, of the Board of Aldermen Alderman Storm and Lawyers W. Bourke Cockran, John H. Strahan and Francis M. Scott. The relation of the sinking fund to the city debt was discussed in all its phases, and particularly as to whether it was better to keep that fund in existence by issuing new long-time bonds as a lien on it, or allow it to end as soon noit equals the indebtedness now outstanding bonds as a lien on it, or allow it to end as soon as it equals the indebtedness now outstanding against it. Chamberlain Ivins favored the latter course. He thought the taxpayers should bear with an increased tax rate for a few years, in anticipation of the low rates that would provail when all the revenues of the city would be used to reduce taxation, instead of soing into a sinking fund to pay outstanding bonds drawing a high rate of interest. Mayor Grant thought this view was a wise one.

The city debt is now about $132,000,000, of which $44,000,000 is in the sinking fund. The average interest on the bonds held in the sinking fund is 5½ per cent. and on the other $88,000,000 about 3½ per cent. Next year the total city debt will be at least $157,000,000. These incts were discussed, and a scheme was proposed for an entire reorganization of the city's financial system. None of the persons at the conference would reveal the details of the plan, but it is understood that they will be embodied in a bill soon to be submitted to the Legisature. The recent discoveries made by the Commissioners of Accounts in the Market Bureau show that the city's revenues have not been properly looked after, and that ground will doubtiess be covered by the new bill. Corporation Counsel Beckman is to draw the bill, aided by Lawyers Strahan and Cockran, in time to have it considered by the Sinking Fund Commissioners next week.

The Sinking Fund Board will meet to-day to missioners next week.

The Sinking Fund Board will meet to-day to take action on the issue of the new park bonds it is likely that the time of the bonds will be reduced to twenty years.

TUXEDO CLUB'S BOGUS MANAGER.

Ris Liberties with James Brown Potter Name Lands Him in Juil.

The managers of the Tuxedo Park Club in gen eral and James Brown Potter in particular, have lately been annoyed by a scamp who has flooded land, when support of the Irish cause was rare; the Cinb's stororooms with unsought merchan-dise, and who forged the name of the latter to a rarer still; in America, at the time when Mr. check for $53, drawn on the banking firm of Bright, foreseeing the ultimate issue of the Brown Brothers, of which the husband of the great struggle of 1861, stood as the representafamous actress is manager. Early this month a tive of an exceedingly small portion of the eduman entered the office of the Empire Laundry, cated community of the country, although No. 152 West Houston street, and introduced undoubtedly representing a large part of imself as M. R. Livingston, of Tuxedo Park. the national sentiment-in all these cases Livingston, who is also known as Thomas C. Crawford, desired to make a contract for the Tuxedo Club laundry work for twelve months. The terms were agreed upon and a formal contract drawn up. Livingston suddenly remembered that he had no ready money with him and requested Superintendent Everett to cash a small check on Brown Brothers. The check bore the apparent signature of James Brown Potter and was for $35. It was cashed at once. Two days after Brown Brothers pronounced the check a forzery.

Two days after Brown Brothers pronounced the check a forzery.

The case was reported to Inspector Byrnes and the swindler was arrested Thursday night.

Eighteen months ago Crawford, as he was then known, strived from England and secured the position of brockkeeper at the Tuxedo Club. He was seciable, well educated and soon became a general favorite. March 1 he was dismissed for intemperance. He then conceived the plan of visiting tradesmen, to whom he introduced nimself as manager of the Tuxedo Club. He cave orders for groceries, wines, finite, meats, &c., and invariably paid for them with a check for $100 or more, arranging his purchases so that he would receive from $25 to $40 in change. The amplies were shipped at once to Tuxedo, and the steward's pantries became a nuisance.

Boy Thieves Strip Barlem Clothes-Lines. Henry Herne, twelve years old, of No. 200 East Eightieth street; Edward Clonan, eleven years old, of No. 1585 Second avenue; Francis Lynch, eleven years old, of No. 106 East Eighty-eighth street, and Henry Bowie, fifteen years old, of No. 1547 Fourth avenue, were years old, of No. 1547 Fourth avenue, were arraigned at the Harlem Police Court before Justice White, yesterday, on a charge of stealing from clothes-lines. The boys belong to a gain of a tiozen or more who have made a practice of ascending to the roofs of flats and stripping clothes-lines, and the police have a list of thirty or more persons who have been rooted in that way. Lynch was arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the thefts and he gave information that led to the arrest of the other boys, lowie was discharged for want of evidence, and the other three boys were held for examination.

Programme for the Masonic Jubilee. Pursuant to call a meeting of the masters wardens and officers of Masonic lodges in this city and Brooklyn was held in Masonic Hall last evening, Grand Master Frank R. Lawrence presided. About two hundred and twenty lodges presided. About two hundred and twenty lodges were represented. The principal business transacted was the indersement of the general order of exercises recommended by the committee to be followed by all the lodges in the State the evening of the jubilee celebration, April 24. On the night in question at 8 o'clock the borther-hood will open their exercises with prayer, unite in singing "Old Hundred," hear the address of the Grand Master read and then enjoy such musical or literary exercises as each of the Masonic gatherings may arrange.

gies of the late John Bright. When the Right Hon. William Henry Smith, who was the first speaker, rose to address the House all the members doffed their hats. Mr. Smith, in a short speech, described Mr. Bright as a man of thorough honesty of purpose and great energy of character.

Mr. Gladstone, upon rising, was received with cheers. He said: "Mr. Bright has been, to a very remarkable degree, happy in the moment of his removal from among us. He lived to see the triumph of almost every great cause to which he specially devoted his heart and mind. He has established a special claim to the admiration of those from whom he differed through his long political life by marked concurrence with them upon the prominent and dominant question of the hour. While he has in that way opened the minds and hearts of those with whom he differed to appreciation of his merits, he has lost nothing by that concord with them on the particular subject we so much represent. Though Mr. Bright came to be separated from the great bulk of the Liberals on the Irish question, on no single occasion has there been any word of disparagement.

HIS CONDUCT IN THE CRIMEAN WAR. "I acknowledge that I have not through my whole political life fully embraced the character of Mr. Bright and the value of that character to the country. I say this because it was at the particular epoch of the Crimean war that I came more to understand than before the position held by him and some of his friends and the hold they had laid upon the confidence of the people. I was one of those who did not agree with the particular views he took of the Crimean contest, but felt profoundly and sever ceased to think what must have been the moral elevation of men who, nurtured all their lives in the temple of popular approval, could at a moment's notice consent to part with the whole of that favor they enjoyed, which opponents might think the very breath of their nostrils. They accepted undoubted unpopularity, for that war commanded the unanimous approval of the people. It was at that time that, although we had known much of Mr. Bright, we learned more. We had known of his great mental gifts, his courage, his consistency and his splendid eloquence. We had not known how high was the moral tone of those popular leaders and what splendid examples they could set

A MASTER OF THE ENGLISH TONGUE. "Among other gifts, Mr. Bright was delighted to be one of the chief guardians of the purity of the English tongue. He knew how the character of a nation is associated with its language. He was enabled as an Englishman profoundly attached to his country, the tongue of the people being to him almost an object of worship, to preserve the purity of the language of Shakespeare and Milton.

"It was a happy lot to unite so many attractive qualities. If I had to dwell upon them alone I should present a dazzling picture to the world. It was a happier lot to teach moral lessons by simplicity, consistency, unfailing courage and constancy of life, thus presenting a combination of qualities that carried us to a higher atmosphere.

HE CHAMPIONS THE CAUSE OF THE UNION "His sympathies were not strong only, but active; not sympathies awaiting calls to be made upon them, but sympathies of a man seeking bjects upon which to bestow the inestimable advantages of eloquence and courage. In Ire-Mr. Bright went far outside the necess ities of his calling. Whatever touched him as a man of the great Anglo-Saxon race, whatever touched him as a subject, obtained, nnasked, his sincere, earnest and enthusia-tic aid. All causes having his powerful advocacy made a distinct advance in the estimation of the world and distinct progress towards triumphant success. Thus it has come about that he is entitled to a higher eulogy than is due to success. Of mere success, indeed, he was a conspicuouexample. In intellect he might claim a most distinguished place. But his character lies deeper than intellect, deeper than eloquence deeper than anything that can be described or that can be seen upon the surface. HE ELEVATED POLITICAL LIFE.

"The supreme eulogy that is his due is that he elevated political life to the highest point—to a loftier standard than it had ever reached. He has bequeathed to his country a character that cannot only be made a subject for admiration and gratitude, but-and I do not exaggerate when I say it that can become an object of reverential contemplation. In the encomiums that come from every quarter there is not a note of dissonance. I do not know of any statesman of my time who had the happiness of receiving, on removal from this passing world, the honor of approval at once so enthusiastic, so universal and so unbroken. Yet none could better dispense with the tributes of the moment, because the triumphs of his life were triumphs recorded in the advance of his country and of its people. His name is indelibly written in the annals of time and on the hearts of the great and overspreading race to which he belonged, whose wide extension he rejoiced to see and whose power and prominence he believed to be full of promise and glory for the best interests of mankind."

Mr. Gladstone resumed his seat amid much subdued cheering.

Lord Hartington referred to the noble words of Mr. Gladstone as fully expressive of the veneration of the country for the memory of Mr. IRELAND'S IMMORTELLE ON HIS GRAVE. Justin McCarthy, who in the absence of Mr. Parnell, spoke for the Irish farty, associated their sentiments with those expressed in the noble speech of Mr. Gladstone. He said that the memory of the Irish people endured, and it carried them back to the time when Mr. Bright championed their cause. He, therefore, claimed the right of Ireland to lay an immortelle on the great Englishman's grave. (Cheers.)

THE LATE JOHN BRIGHT.

Col. Ochiltree Furnishee a Pleasant Remislecence of the Statesman.

To the Reliter of The World: I had often heard Mr. Bright speak in the House of Commons and on bauqueting occa-sions, but I never had the honor of knowing him personally until the season of 1883. Mr. James Russell Lowell was then our Minister to London, and it was at one of his delightful little dinners given at the American Legation in Great dist his time, his conversation gave no indication thereof, yet there was a charm about his utterances that insensibly drew you to him. There was a mention of Abraham Lincolo, when Mr. Bright said he was the greatest man born since Washington. He deprecated war, but believed America could never have obliterated that foul biot upon her otherwise free institutions, slavery, except through that crucial test. He said Grant's superb magnanimity to Lee and his ranged and toru legions at Appomattox was the most beautiful incident ever known in history. He was surprised to learn, seeing our good-fellowship and camaraderic, that Gen. Hawley and Mr. Reed had served on opposite sides in the civil was from myself, and although I had borne but an humble part in the great conflict he seemed much interested in regard to the then condition of the Southern States, political, social and economic. He was particularly desirous to know how the ex-slave had adapted himself to the new order of things, expressing his fears that his suddenly acquired prerogatives would inject a dangerous quantity into the republican form of government. He was a friend and ally of the North up to the surrender of Appomattox; then he favored mercy by the successful North to their defeated brathren of the South. He had written to his friend Charles Summer (and he suppessed Mr. Summer's executor would; find the letter among his effects) congratulating him and assuring him of his warmest synashy in his efforts to obliterate all evidences from the Union flags of the Iratricidal strife, and calling his attention to the precedents in Roman history where they invariably pursued this policy—i. e., to blot out all remembrances in information his was much interested in the personality of Jefferson Davis, and when I told him that although I had quitted his side of politics I preserved great esteen and respect for his many noble qualities he quite agreed with me, saving that the eternal fitness of things was carried out by the action of such men as victor. Mr. Doris's agent said yesterday that the museum manager had received the letter, and stated furthermore that the boy Krullsch is not represented in wax, nor is his name or anything connected with him used, as Mr. Doris would not do anything to jeopardize a fellow creature's chance for life or liberty.

THE PASSING SHOW.

The culminating kick in this Washington Centennial business will probably come from Washington. And it really looks now as though President Harrison would fall in line with the disgrun tled citizens of New York who are not provided with opera-boxes, and with the intelligent and spirited Legislators at Albany who thought they were not going to get their hats full of grand-stand tickets and other coupons in exchange for the $200,000 appropriation. But it is only fair to say that Mr. Harrison will stand on firmer ground than the solons at the State He has been keenly alive to the intimation that the prominent Republicans on the Cen-tennial Committee desire to transform the cele-bration into a Republican "blowout" with him-self as the central figure in the picture, and he has already made known to these leading licself as the central figure in the picture, and he has already made known to these leading Hepublicans here that they must not use into apart of the show. It is on other grounds, however, that the President will probably male a more streamons and determined kick than this. According to the programme already announced for April 29 and 30 the committees have given him more to do and to endure than any mortal man has strength for.

It is proposed to start him from Trenton at 7 o'clock on Monday morning, April 29, carry him on to Elizabeth and give him a reception there before he proceeds to Elizabeth port, where he embarks for New York. The New Jersey authorities will take care of him while he is on Jersey soil, and agree to deliver him to the Naval Centennial Committee at Elizabethport about 11 o'clock in the morning. From this time on to 1 o'clock the next morning, April 30, when President Harrison will probably leave the ball at the Metropolitan Opera-House, every moment of his time is filled up with ceremonies and receptions time is filled up with ceremonies and receptions of one kind and another. And then they start him off again at 9 o'clock in the same morning at 8t. Paul's Church, where religious exercises are to be conducted. Between that time and 8 o'clock in the evening, when he is to appear at the banquet, he will have to make a speech at the Sub-Treasury and review fifty or sixty thousand troops from the reviewing stand at Madison Square. It is not believed that President Harrison can stand any such physical strain as this programme entails, and the Central Committee will probably be informed of that fact, and be requested to modify their arrangements before the 30th of April gets here.

Tony Pastor quite recently encountered one of the most serious disappointments of his whole professional career. It occurred to him that a new ballad with the rather weeping-willow title of "Here Lies an Actor" was susceptible of burlesque treatment, and he arranged the song so that he could sing not only "Here Lies an Actor, "but "Here Lies a Doctor, " "Here lies a Newspaper Man, "and, above all, "Here Lies a Lawyer," with the accent on the lie. He intended to sing it in the burlesque Bowery tough style, and as a basis for the burlesque proposed to have some young girl singer sing the ballad itself in the simplest and most pathetic way possible. The girl he selected to carry out this part of the plan was a muscular young woman with a pretty strong contralto voice, who is a great favorite in the variety houses along the Bowery. Pastor secondingly sent her on to do the preliminaries, himself standing in the wines. What was his horror to discover, as she got into the song, that she was singing it in such a tough way that he couldn't possibly do it any tougher himself. She did it in the ultra Bowery style, and Pastor stood in the wings metaphorically tearing his hair and trying to attract her attention, while he saw the possibility of any burlesque on his part gradually but surely fading away. Finally the tough songstress came off the stage and Tony went on and sang another song. He admitted afterwards to his friends that in the light of her unpremidiated burlesque his elaborately concocted affair would have been no use at all. itself in the simplest and most pathetic way pos-

ALBERT DOENCH RESIGNS.

Not Politics but Business Considerations Said to Have Influenced Him.

The Commissioners of the Fire Department at meeting yesterday accepted the resignation of Albert F. D'Oench, Superintendent of the Bureau of Inspection of Buildings, to take effect April 1. The gossips at once whispered that the resignation had been asked for in order that the position might be filled by son e one more closely identified than Mr. D'Oench with politics in general and with Tammany Hall in particular, But it has long been known among the friends of Mr. D'Oench that he was anxious to leave the public service and resume the practice of architecture. The salary of the office is only #4,000 and splendid opportunities offer at present for him to return to his old profession. He has filled

The Guillotine at Work.

The first dismissals in this city under the new Administration were made yesterday, when Col. Jewell, Chief of the Special Treasury Agents. under orders from Secretary Windom, notified peveral of his staff here that their services would not be required any longer. The most important of these dismissais was that of Special Treasury Agent George H. Simmons, who has done good service for the Government in unravelling goveral important customs cases, but who being a staunch Democrat, has got to make way for some of the fatthful. Mr. Simmon's spay is say a day and his services will be dispensed with tron April 15. The following hisportors attached to the Special Agent's Beartment received word that the Government would not need them after April 1 John P. Kays, Jacob Schacher, Frederick Hess, John A. Butter and I. H. Kinck, all of whom are stationed in theirty, and Brasibury Dyer, who has been on dury at Albany. Two special employees in the cape department were also distinsed. Not Necessarily to the Lowest Bidder The Court of Appeals has just rendered a deci sion in the case of Walsh vs. The Mayor. Mr. Walsh's bid for the construction of certain piers was the highest, by $15,000, of four. It was the only one regular in form, however, and he claimed to be entitled to a contract, but the Commissioners of Docks rejected all the bids and readvertised the work. Under the second bidding a contract was made at a price $13,000 less that waish's bid. Mr. Walsh then brought an action for damages, and recovered in the first instance $16,000. This judgment was reversed, and the Court of Appear anys that the city officials have the power to decline to make contracts, even with the lowest bidder, when it is claimed that the bids are largely in excess of the real cost of the work, and that if the true interest of the dity demands that none of the bids should be accepted, the city officers have the right to reject all and resolverties. only one regular in form, however, and he

in the Editor of the World.

My attention having been called pesterday, March 24, to an article published in your valuable paper March 17 concerning my sister-inlaw, Mme. Adelina l'atti-Nicolini, daughter Carlina, I take the liberty of refuting law. Mme. Adelina Patti-Nicolini, and my daughter Carlina, I take the liberty of refuting certain paragraphs in said article.

First—Never did I give up my child to be adopted by her anni, nor were any papers or documents passed to that effect; furthermore, in consulting the New Orleans Ree for the month of March, 1886, there will be found an article from one concerning said adoption and refuting scid allegations.

Second—It is also stated that when my daughter was taken ceriously ill with typhoid fever the was sent immediately to Paris and thence to New Orleans, which is completely erroneous, for in November, 1887, when my child fell sick in Craig-y-Nos, Mme. Patti cabled me to come at once and see my daughter, who was dangeronsly ill, which I did and passed three weeks with her, after which I took her to London to meet her aunt, and from that place they all left together for Madrid, Portugal and South America, after this tour returning to the eastle. I must also add that for all her kindness sud affection towards us both I will always entertain the greatest affection and gratitude towards Myno. Patti.

Third—Mine, Patti never contemplated making a singer of her nices, and never has she for a moment expected to use her as an artiste. In connection with the adoption of Mr. Nicolini's daughter, that certainly is a right that Mme. Patti has, and with which no one has a right to find fault or comment on. Hoping, sir, you will give my communication your kindest attention and refute said article, I remain yours most obediently, Widow Canlo Patti.
